DADDARIO CRITICIZES DULLES IN U2 CASE

WASHINGTON, June 3—(UPI)—A former World War II U.S. [redacted] and dagger man voiced criticism yesterday on Central Intelligence Director Allen W. Dulles' handling of the U2 spy plane incident.

Rep. Emilio Q. Daddario (D-Conn.) said the CIA should have reached the conclusion that the information to be gained by the U2 flight right before the summit was not enough to overcome the consequences if it failed.

Daddario, in his newsletter, said it was Dulles' "authority to postpone any U2 gamble to enhance the success of the President's main effort for peace. His was the statutory responsibility to protect CIA methods against unauthorized disclosure."
